"Behind the Scenes" Staff

For the beginning of this yearbook, we must proudly introduce the most important man at Kekionga Junior High ... Mr. Robert Stebbe, principal of our school. He has represented and led Kekionga to be the proud and worthy junior high that it is. Working with assistant principal, Mr. Tom Duff, the two supervise the operations of the students and the teachings of the faculty. Mr. Stebbe and Mr. Duff are placed at the top of their ability to handle situations that arise every day within the school. They are the men we need to help to guide us to the days of tomorrow. We have two guidance counselors, Mr. Ed Innis and Mrs. Romona Lavender. These two people help us with our daily needs.

Mr. Stebbe, our principal, greets a Warrior with a "howdy".

Mr. Duff, our assistant principal, helps Mr. Stebbe's job.

Mrs. Lavender gives helpful advice to a troubled Warrior.

establishing a "Solid" school.

Our janitors help keep Kekionga's halls and restrooms sanitary.

Mrs. Kilpatrick helps us when we're ill.

Have you ever gone to get a drink of water and found an ugly wad of gum staring you in the face, or been in a situation where you couldn't get your locker open because it was jammed from someone trying to stack it? If you have, you know how a custodian can help you get through the day.

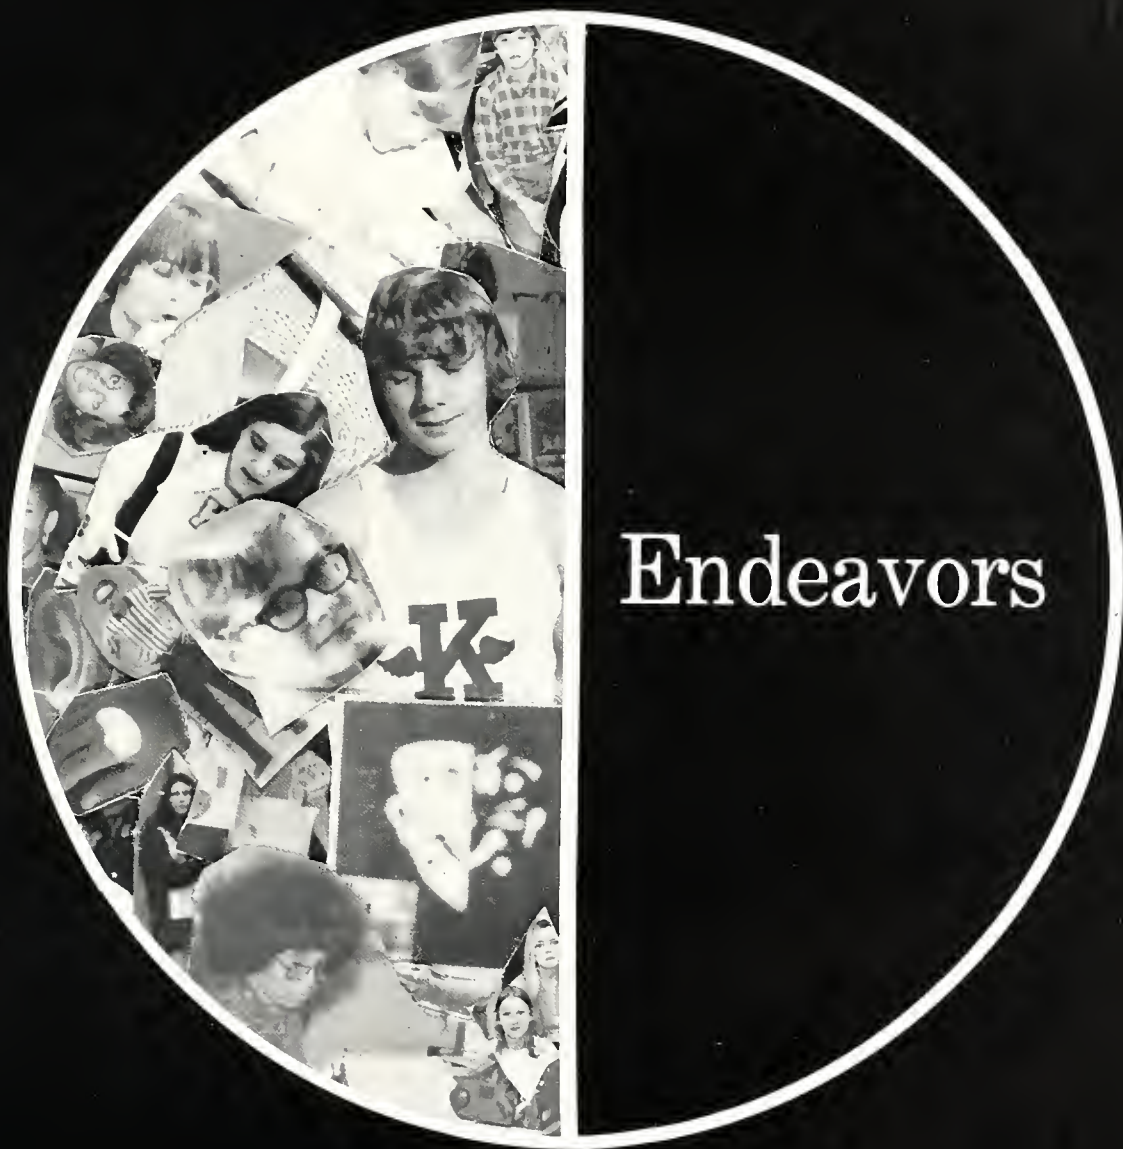

Mrs. Byrd and Mrs. Young are lunch clerks in charge of keeping people from cutting in line, leaving their trays behind, and keeping people who went out, out. For the years they have been here they have upheld the cafetorium's cleanliness and become mighty Warriors themselves.

Mrs. Byrd (left) and Mrs. Young help to keep the lunchroom intact.

Kekionga's cooks are special to us because they give us a hot lunch.

English brings up many responses, some of which cannot be said.

Slaughter in the pigpen, (Animal Farm), Strike a match, (A Single Light), and punch it out, (The Contender) were some of the exciting books students got into in English classes this year. English was filled with many surprises. The English classes this year have been especially immense in composition, literature reporting, and creative writing. English is indeed extraordinary!

English is exasperating!

We have been invaded by Plutonians. Strange sounds and strange people occupying rooms 105, 108, and 106. As you slowly and silently pass these rooms praying not to be attacked, you might hear them conversing in their weird foreign languages. If you didn't however, you may ask the people in those classes the questions: "Do you speak French?" and "Do you speak Spanish?"

They are rollin' on the press

I wonder what they are thinking?

Oh no! What is next? Help me!!

Crop-cut-print. The publications staff of 75" consisted of eighteen creatively intelligent and hard working freshman students. The publications staff put out the "Arrowhead" (the newspaper for those of you who do not know) and the Tomahawk (this wonderful yearbook). One of the staff members, Patty Lee, volunteered to write "Kekionga Kapers," for the "Waynedaler."

For those of you who think publications is all fun and games, take it from one who knows, it's not! Besides doing publications, the students in this special english class have to meet all the ninth grade english requirements, do composition upon composition, and give up some of their Saturdays to come in and work on the yearbook.-----Not even a break for lunch!

Is this right? Heck if I know.

Editor towers over sponsor.

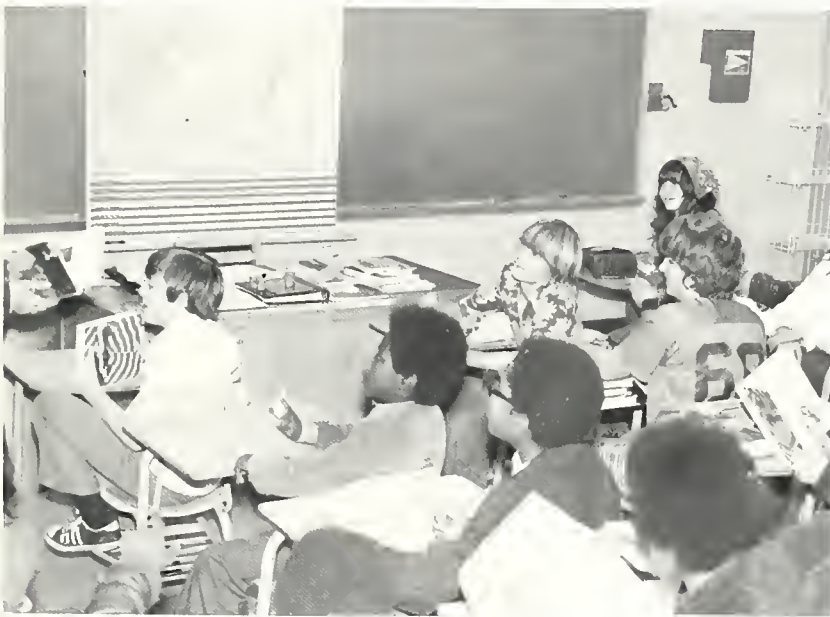

We have eager beavers in here; they all want to answer questions.

You're going back into time

You will never see an unhappy face in Mr. Daniel's class! If he could not think of something interesting, one of his students would!

Who ever thought history could be fun? If you took that wonderfully exciting class this year, you would have learned more than you thought your brain had the capacity to hold. The classes did a variety of things, besides studying other countries in the seventh grade and U.S. History in the eighth grade. One of the things the students liked best was when they would have visitors from other countries. Just think, you people that are in the seventh grade this year, get another whole year of history to look forward to! So don't throw away your thinking caps, wait until you get in the ninth grade to do that.

Teaching industrial arts, Mr. Wolford and Mr. Daniels have become two of the most admired teachers to the Kekionga Warrior guys. Mr. Daniels gave the seventh graders a taste of the shop and drafting to come. The eighth and ninth graders are given a year of industrial arts, taught by Mr. Wolford.

Shop consisted of a project in the woods, metals, wood lathe, and metal lathe areas.

Drafting consisted of 3-view, 1-2 point perspective, auxiliary, isometric, and construction projects and drawings. As an added extra, Mr. Wolford included silk screen printing, rocketry, and photography.

For business inclined people, as a ninth grade alternate, Mr. Mathias offers his General Business course. The course helps you to understand income tax forms, banking, and economic current events.

The seventh, eighth, and ninth grade girls. The girls are supposedly making things with a range of cookies and cakes to asparagus and pizza fondue! But, who knows what will come out! Miss Rathert, Mrs. Diehl, and Miss Bartz give advice to the determined home economics students, so they can reach their goal of becoming "Big Chefs."

Discovering tomorrow in science

Films cause Warriors, new and experienced alike, to understand the seemingly unexplainable subject of science.

No, it's not a course in vampiring! It is blood-typing in ninth grade biology classes. Close your eyes, hold your breath, and be prepared to bleed!

Weights and measurements are important.

Films are not the only way to learn about the sciences! Drawings, models, and diagrams help to make science come alive.

Charts make learning for tomorrow easier.

Experiments play another part in learning and chemical equations become realities. When the elements are mixed, the outcome is usually a little knowledge.

Being in science means many papers.

Protoplasm, Van Allen Belt, vacuole, catalyst, Joseph Black, DNA, exotoxin, fission and fusion, constellation, hydrogen transport, matter, Robert Hooke, kinetic energy, spirochete, CO₂, diatomic molecules ... What? These are all important terms and people learned in science, and there are many, many more! Surprising, huh!

If you really think about it, science is one of the most informative (and boring) subjects around. Seriously, science helps us to understand the wonders of the universe, both minute and far away.

Have an open mind and read

Devoted library aids assist Mrs. Robbins and Mrs. Hessert in keeping an organized library.

Kekionga's library has a vast variety of literature, magazines, and reference books.

To the library we will go, to read a book by Edgar Poe. Mystery of the Fat Cat to the Shores of Tripoli, are some of the books a person might see. It's really a rook if you don't read a book; Love, mystery, fiction too, all of this is there for you!

R.A.S. and Crabb McCall, or was that SAR and Call McCrabb. Oh well, whatever it was, that's what the students in Developmental Reading were taught. Students were continually going to the library to learn the Deci Dewmal System, or was that the Dewey Decimal System! Oh well, it was a great year in the Developmental Reading classes anyway.

Gym class is the class where you have the most chance to be yourself. The guys come to participate in the various sports offered in competition manner. The gals specialize in dances and gymnastics as they also join in on the seasonal sports. The students may also test themselves for the President's Physical Fitness Award, the highest award that an athlete can receive in junior high.

Music opens doorways of unfulfilled

Students interested in music, including choir, orchestra, and band, will find an excellent program for them here at Kekionga. Many opportunities arise from our music courses, one of which is the NISBOVA vocal instrumental contest. In this, students compete against themselves and were rated by their abilities to play an instrument or how well they could sing. The ninth grade choir went to see Jesus Christ Superstar and some students even went to hear the Ball State University Singers perform, so evidently our music program has expanded considerably.

Concert Band is seventh, eighth, and ninth graders that huff and puff beautifully.

Our eighth grade choir, has truly honored Kekionga in its many memorable showings.

This student shows the concentration it takes for art work.

As you walk by rooms 213 and 217, you can see how talented and artistic some of Kekionga's art students are. The windows always have displays in them.

The art students make projects ranging from sketching and ear of corn to making rugs. New techniques in different areas are being taught and learned.

Miss Hills taught her classes to make the colorful reha rugs that can double as wall hangings, too.

The teacher always knows best! Miss Hills shows a student how to use a loom to weave a yarn belt.

Mr. White is the varsity football coach. He invited all he could get, dressed them out, spent his time working with a great group of guys, and ended up with a 2-4 win record. The guys kicked off with the Annual Football Jamboree at Wayne High School Stadium. After going into a four game losing streak, the guys got mad and stomped on Fairfield with a score of 12-6. With the last victory upholding their spirits, the ninth grade played their last game with Shawnee and brought home a 26-2 winning score.

The wrestling team did well this season against the other junior high schools in the city. The coach, Mr. Horn, from Elmhurst High School, taught the wrestlers different moves and techniques to pin or defeat their opponent by points. The regular season consisted of five meets and the divisional meet. The wrestlers that qualified in their weight classes went to South Side High School for the city final meet.

Coordination, skill, and a lot of practice are the words that best describe Kekionga's gymnastics team. Much effort was put into their routines and it certainly showed when the young ladies competed. The beam, unevens, horse and free floor make up the four areas people compete in. Getting up early in the morning to practice isn't easy and the gymnasts did it many times, to give Kekionga a fantastic team.

Dribble—dribble—steps—whistle—shoot—miss—rebound—score! Willy-Nilly—making points—winning games! If you happen to go by the gym after school, you probably would have seen a bunch of girls running around the gym trying to throw an orange ball through a hoop that's hooked to the wall. Well, you may or may not know that it was the game of basketball, and all we can say is that the girls really lived up to the name "Basketball." Besides developing their skills and competing with other schools, the girls also learned how to cope with sore and pulled muscles.

A visitor from France came and told of their cultures and customs in Europe. After the discussion, Francoise and Miss Bell's French class enjoyed refreshments.

Wyandotts is really a drama club, that presents plays for the school. This year one of the plays they put on was "What'll We Give Dad?" The other one was "Oh Baby!" The actors put a lot of hard work and effort into presenting these plays.

The Afro-American club is one of the newest additions to Kekionga's after school activities. Considering, this has been its first year, it has done quiet well. One of the reasons for its success was the guidance of its sponsors, Mrs. Lavender and Mrs. Yates. The club itself has sponsored activities for the whole school, and themselves.

7th grade basketball team coached by Mr. Ankenbrock.

The lettermen and letterladies are students who have earned letters. To earn a letter, you must participate in and complete three sports. One may also earn a letter in vocal or instrumental music, pom-poms or cheerleading. This year the lettermen sponsored the selling of windbreakers to raise funds for new athletic equipment.

Girl's intramurals is giving girls a chance to improve their skills in sports, such as gymnastics, volleyball, and basketball, outside of gym class.

The judo club which met once a week after school was sponsored by Mr. Wolford. The members learned and practiced maneuvers in self-defense.

The seventh grade football team put up a battle this year but unfortunately ended the season with only a 0-4 rating.

The game scores were:

Ben Geyer	14	us	0
Portage	20	us	0
Miami	20	us	0
Fairfield	14	us	0

Above: 7th grade football team. Coached by Mr. Ankenbruck.

Below: Girl's Intramurals. Sponsored by Miss Johnson.

Make the right moves

Have you ever been in dept? If you have, perhaps you should have joined the Banking Club! The members learned the importance of saving money, which is a pretty smart idea.

For students who enjoy collecting stamps or coins, Kekionga has a club especially for them. The members exchange stamps and coins with each other, along with information.

A few of Kekionga's future millionaires are saving towards their goals.

Stamps and coins can be a fun hobby. Shown here are a couple of club members.

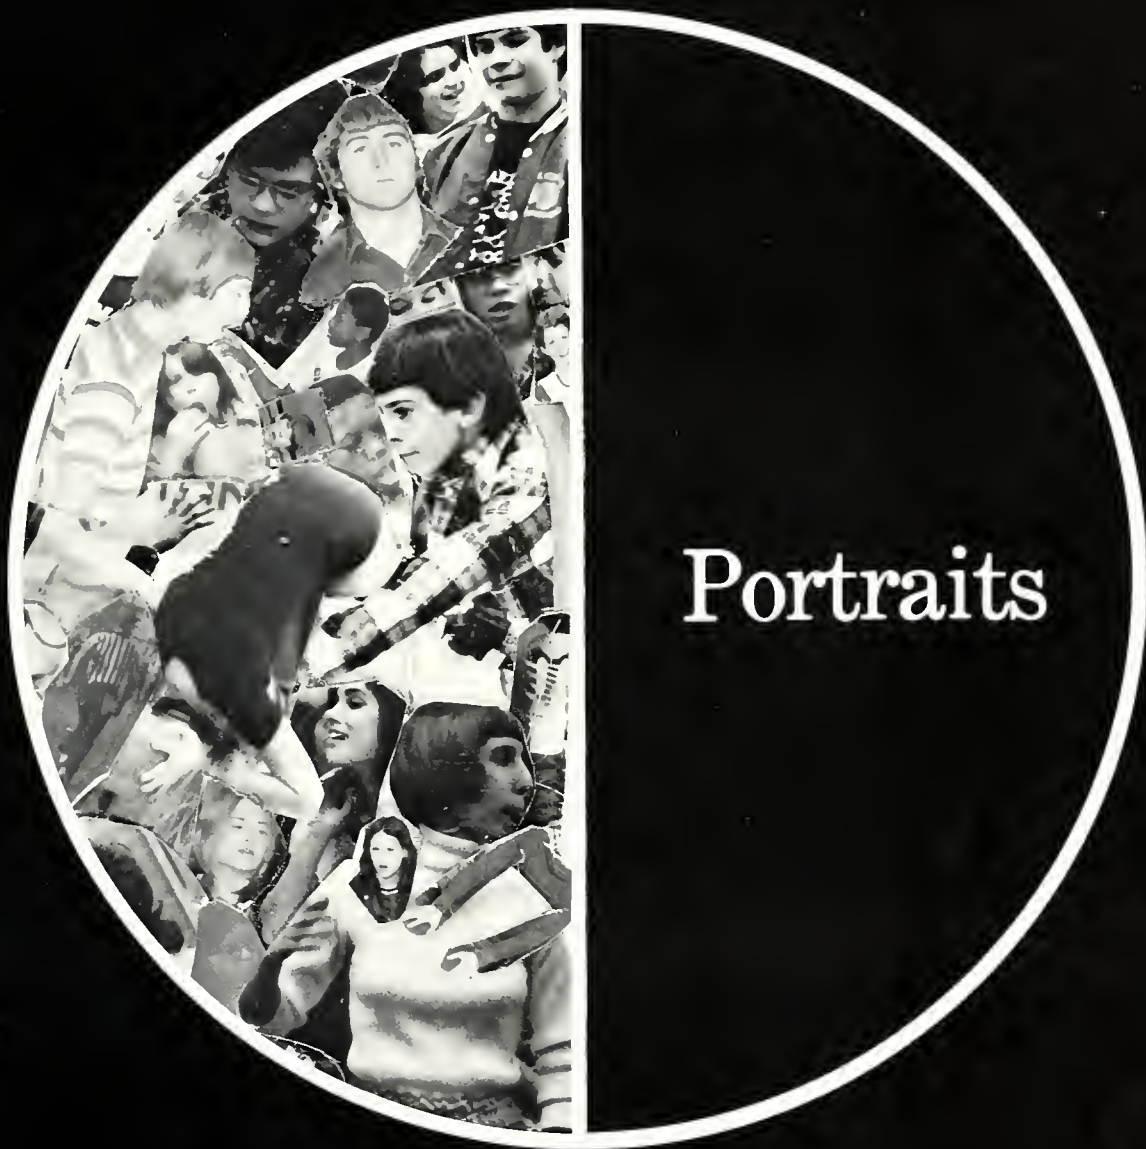

King me! Checkmate! A familiar cry.

Checkmate! King me! Students who wanted to learn and play chess or checkers had the opportunity this past year at Kekionga. Since the club was small, students were able to improve their strategy.

For students who enjoy challenges, the Math Club is for them. Many people think the Math Club is something like math classes. Yuk! But, this isn't true. Students in the Math Club play many games that take a great deal of patience.

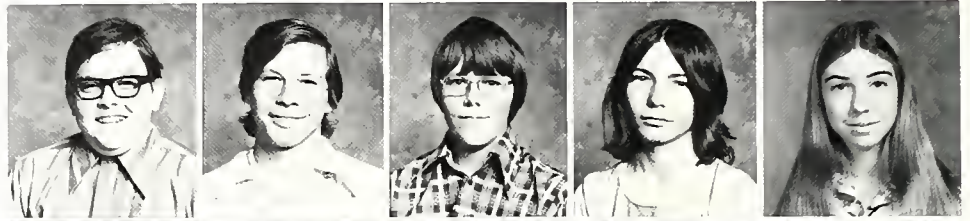

What's full of competition and lots of fun? You guessed it, the Math Club.
